ROAS still read 5.20x. Nothing looked broken.

The real story was the cost of each extra sale.

ONE SALE · NOV 2025

$27

EACH EXTRA SALE · DEC 2025

$71

Black Friday is coming. Before you raise budgets, ask these 6 questions. They put the money on the right ads. →

01

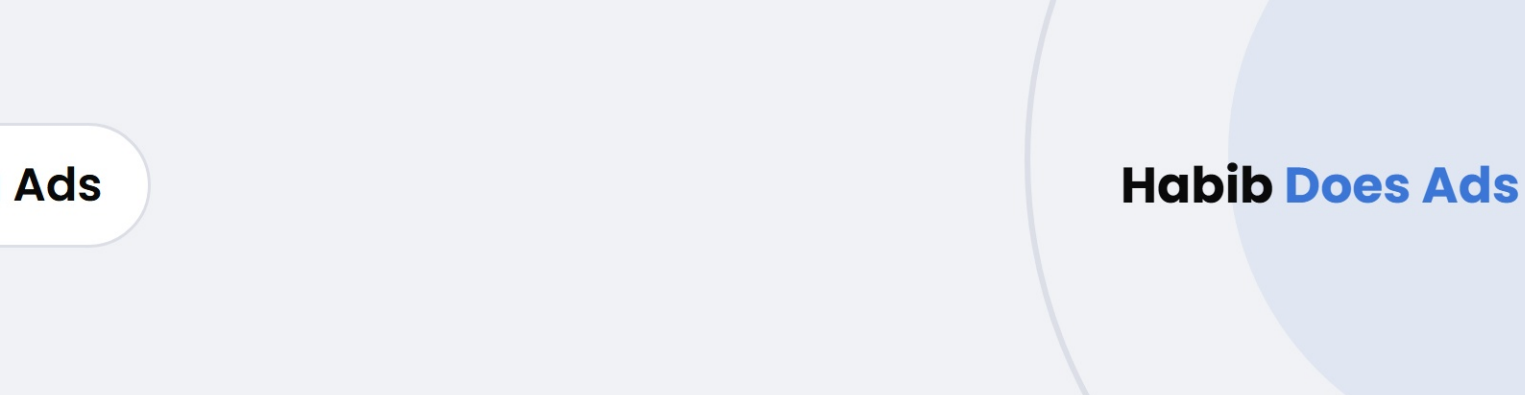

Did sales keep up the last time you raised it?

If they didn't, more budget won't fix that.

02

Is cost per sale rising faster than CPM?

Then it's your ads or your offer, not the auction. One of our accounts this year:

03

Is frequency climbing while reach stays flat?

Same people, same ads. Extra budget buys more of that.

QUESTIONS 4 AND 5

04

Where will Meta spend the extra?

$10

in 3 days

That's what Meta gave our best ad set. Now we set a 20-25% minimum spend on ad sets that sell.

05

How big is the step?

48

budget changes

In 3 months. Most steps were just $5 to $10. Big jumps are hard to read.

06

Is your “winner” really the winner?

Two ad sets in one of our accounts, earlier this month:

	SALES	COST / SALE	AVG ORDER	REVENUE
Ad set A	40	$8.49	$31.40	$1,256
Ad set B	37	$11.81	$68.36	$2,529

A looks like the winner.
B made twice the money.

More budget buys more of whatever your account is already doing.

Which of the 6 would it fail?
